...Leading Causes of Life

Yes...we are talking about leading causes of life vs. leading causes of death! Join us as Matthew shares a new view of and approach to health that may influence how we advance our work, relationships, personal well-being and community.

"The leading causes of life is not merely the activities that extend our lives by a year, but the activities that are daily life-giving and help us to appreciate who we are, where we are, and why we are." ~ Gary Gunderson
